LOCAL BANDS TO HOLD PICNIC JUNE 29

Old Mokena Study Club Holds Re-union

Mrs. Wm. Lowe entertained in her home Tuesday afternoon at a luncheon at a re-union of the former members of the Mokena Study Club.

The dining table was attractively decorated in pink and white with a center piece of garden flowers. The serving was very delightfully done by Mrs. Lowe's daughter Ruth, and Miss Adelaide Lauffer.

The afternoon was spent visiting and reminiscing. This was the first time an effort had been made for a get-together of these former club members since its disbandment in 1917.

This Woman's Club was organized in 1914 and was called "The Study Club." It was affiliated with the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, being in the 11th district. According to the first program which was typewritten by Mrs. Wm. Semmler for each member, the object of the organization was "For Mutual Culture and United Work in the Community." Meetings were held each first and third Friday of the month in the member's homes at 2 p. m. from Sept. to April inclusive.

The first club officers were: President, Mrs. Cora Maue; vice-president, Mrs. Mable McGovney; and Secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Emma Eakle. Mrs. McGovney, Mrs. Eakle and Mrs. Selma Krapp composed the program committee; Mrs. Grace McGovney was in charge of the music and Miss Julia Schiek was the picture study leader, who, at each meeting presented a study of the "Perry Pictures."

A paper was prepared and presented at each meeting on such subjects as "History of Illinois," "Juvenile Court," "Art Institute," "Health," "School System," "The New Chicago," "The Status of Women in Illinois," "Domestic Science," "Elections" etc.

The following were members of this club 27 years ago: Mesdames Emma Bechstein, Emma Eakle, Sarah Grogan, Selma Krapp, Anna Hirsch, Florence Lauffer Steele, Frederica Mager, Cora Maue, Etta Marti, Grace McGovney, Mable McGovney, Helen Braun Pfeiffer, Sarah Searles, Margaret Semmler, Clara Woodrich, Margaret Young and the Misses Julia Schiek, Anna Fleisner and Frieda Zumstein.

Of the above members the following have passed away: Miss Fleisner, Miss Schiek, Mrs. Zumstein, Mrs. Searles, Mrs. Pfeiffer, Mrs. Woodrich and Emma Bechstein.

Those present at the reunion were Mrs. Cora Maue, and daughter Mrs. Muriel Fluck and her daughter Joan of Grant Park, Ill., Mrs. F. Mager of Blue Island; Mrs. Donald Maue and son Durwin of Pontiac, Michigan, daughter of Mrs. Woodrich and the Mesdames Steele, Pfeiffer, Semmler of Mokena. Mrs. Lowe, although not being a member of the club, often attended the meetings with her sister, Mrs. Woodrich.

A picture was taken of the group. This club functioned from 1914 to 1917 when it disbanded and went into Red Cross work and at the end of World War No. 1 it was reorganized into a "Home Improvement Club" and was active as such for a number of years.

In a note from Mrs. Mable McGovney of Joliet, expressing her regrets at not being able to attend the reunion, she sent her greetings to her one time fellow club members and wrote: "Wish the group would form a club and join our County League."

Hurt By Cow

Andrew Hobbs, 74 years old, of Manhattan, was injured by a cow last Saturday. He suffered lacerations and bruises when he was butted and gored by the animal. He was taken to Silver Cross hospital. He is reported to be improving nicely.

BANKS MAKE MANY PROPERTY LOANS

Forty-five per cent of the banks of Illinois made more than 459,000 loans totaling $1,232,000,000 to business firms and individuals throughout the state during the second half of 1940, according to the semi-annual survey of bank lending activity made by the Research Council of the American Bankers Association.

These 380 banks reported that they made between July 1 and December 31, 1940 269,616 new loans totaling $832,221,755; 184,325 renewals of loans totaling $374,542,977; 6,028 new mortgage loans totaling $26,090,602.

Marley Will Hold 59th Annual 4th of July Parade

The famed annual Marley Fourth of July Picnic and Parade will be held this year for the 59th consecutive year. The Marley Brotherhood is sponsoring the celebration. The parade will start in front of the Marley church at 10:30 a. m., sharp and will march thru the main streets of the village and windup at Storm's Grove.

Here is a lineup of what to expect to see in the parade: Gleaners float in charge of Mrs. Fred Blodgett; V. F. W. float in charge of Glenn Peterson; Marley Women's Club float in charge of Mrs. Fred Blodgett; H. H. Sabin's Grocery; Will County Farm Bureau; Marley Brotherhood, James Tilsy, President; Covered wagon train from Palos Community Center with Rev. Paul Sanders in charge; Mokena Boy Scouts; Clarence E. Beagley, electric dealer, Orland Park; Homewood American Legion in charge of Commander John C. DePorto; Coppotelli Radio and Appliance Store, Joliet, sound truck. A special feature will be a cavalcade of horses led by 12 years old Rachel Ann Bridges of Homer and her trick pony.

Spend the Glorious Fourth at Marley!

PROFESSIONALS VIEW OF THE CIRCUS

A visitor to a circus is like a skilled farmer viewing a field of wheat. A glance across the billowing expanse of his eye encompasses it from the soil and its treatment to the finished crop. No detail is lacking. The skilled performer views his circus with the same degree of observation. He observes the advance press comments. The manipulation of truth as sensational as falacy. The placing of the train, the unloading of the lot, the main top and accessory tents. Everything in its place and each manager of a department ready, without controversy, for the opening. The performers neatly groomed ready. The band in place and the entire group ready for the entrance as the announcer clears for them and above all, is the evidence of apt and capable quality of the boss property man and his assistants who in reality carry the show forward. Mrs. Hall and I visited the Cole Brothers Circus in Joliet, June 23rd. We made the afternoon performance and "took in the show" interested in all its departments. The weather was hot, but we visited it from its adequate shade show fronted by pleasing banners to the meager, the big top attraction and the capably conducted "wild west" which closed the program, the capable artists performed their parts and the announcing was adequate. The clowns were sober as good clowns should be. There were no "waits" and due to the capable qualities of the property men the show under the blue and gold canopy with its beautiful women, its horses and elephants, went forward so pleasantly that when the three hour circus was concluded, we, Mrs. Hall and myself, two professionals, pronounced it an adequately presented circus performance. The attendance was good and the audience cleared with nothing but praise for a capable presentation.

2 Per Cent Sales Tax In Effect July 1st; Governor Green Keeps Pledge

Retailers thruout Illinois are setting the wheels in motion to give the consumer public full benefit from Gov. Dwight H. Green's $32,500,000 annual sales tax reduction, it is being announced by the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations. Effective July 1st, Illinois will go to a 2 per cent retailers occupation tax from the present 3 per cent level, which has been in effect since July 1, 1935.

The decrease in the tax rate necessitates adoption of a new retailers' occupation tax bracket by Illinois distributors. Acting thru the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations, the Cook County Retail Council, various retail trade associations and downstate Chambers of Commerce, Illinois retailers so represented have unanimously endorsed the tax brackets currently in use in the states of Iowa, Kansas and North and South Dakota. Under this bracket, 1c is added on sales from 15c to 65c, 2c on sales of 66c to $1.24 and 3c on sales from $1.25 to $1.74.

Illinois consumers, under the new bracket, will pay a 1c added charge on a 65c purchase, instead of 2c as formerly; on a purchase of $1.50 it will be 3c, compared to 5c and on a $2.17 purchase it will be 4c instead of 7c. Stated another way, an added charge of 10c will cover purchases up to $5.24, as against $3.49 under the 3 per cent rate.

Governor Green is to be highly commended on keeping his political campaign pledge to reduce the sales tax.

Joliet Firm Low Bidder On Frankfort Road Oil Job

The A. C. Johnston Co., of Joliet were the low bidders for furnishing road oil for the improvement of certain streets in Frankfort, their bid being 7 1-2c per gallon for a lot of 2000 gallons. Wm. Knippel was the low bidder for hauling and spreading stone, his bid for stone required being $249.00. In all seven bids were received. The work is being done by the gas tax due Frankfort from the state.

New Lenox All Set For Real Old Fashioned July 4th

The New Lenox Band Association will have one of the finest Fourth of July parades which have ever been held in that town. The parade will start at the New Lenox school and go west on Route 30 to the Athletic Club field. The parade will start at 1:30 o'clock DST. Music will be furnished by a 150 piece massed band made up from the bands of New Lenox, Elwood and Plano. These bands will conduct the following band concert program:

Marches—"Hosts of Freedom" and "Youth of America"; overture "Rosemarion"; selection "Stout Hearted Men" by Romberg; March "Marines March"; selection "Tea for Two" by Youmans; March "I Am an American"; selection "God Bless America".

There will be an exhibition of baton twirling.

Plenty of games, prizes, refreshments, etc. Fireworks display at night. Everyone invited for a real old fashioned Fourth of July celebration.

Orland Votes On Community High School District June 28

The Community High School District question in Orland boils down to a question of getting out of the Non-High School District by forming a local district. This would place local high school taxes under the control of five local men. They could continue the present local high school arrangements and save money; or if it is desired could operate a four year high school locally without a tax increase.

An almost certain tax increase on the Non-High School District can be avoided locally by establishing the proposed community high school district.

Students already attending other high schools could continue at those same schools. Their tuition would be paid by the new local district instead of by the Non-High District as at present.

A four-year high school locally is a sound proposition as is proven by Crete this past year. There a fully accredited program has been furnished to more students with less money and space than the proposed district would here.

However, establishment of the proposed local tax saving school district does not obligate the five local directors of the new district to add the fourth year if they find it impractical.

Establishment of the new district would prevent any tax increase with out a vote of the people.

"Our Schools are our Greatest Asset! Our Greatest Responsibility."

Be sure to vote Saturday, June 28. THE COMMITTEE ON REORGANIZATION.

German-American Editor Pays Tribute to Pete McCarthy and His Mission

In a recent issue of "The German-American" of Joliet and Will County, its Editor, Otto Ehtor, paid the following beautiful tribute to Pete McCarthy, well known head and the founder of the famed "Morning Star Mission" of Joliet:

"If you like to see Pete McCarthy in his office, you do not have to knock on the door—there aren't any doors. Snow or rain pours right into Pete's office—there is no ceiling to protect the furniture which isn't there. On windy days his office is extremely air-conditioned, in fact, his rent-free office is on the corner of the First National Bank in Joliet, Ill. Rain or shine—Pete seldom misses a day in his office. There is a calling back—a lot of teasing done on Pete's corner.

His plant, as Pete calls it, the Morning Star Mission, is located on Collins Street. Once in a while Pete recalls the time when he could build a new house front with the bricks some people threw in his windows.

Induced by a turbulent past, Pete decided to devote his life to the service of his fellowmen and especially to interest himself in the caring for the lost and the under dog.

There isn't a day that goes by that Pete doesn't give shelter, clothing, food or fare to someone who needs it most, regardless of creed or race.

Many a parent's heart has been consoled thru Pete's help by sending home their astray child. Immediate help is always at hand without red tape, and still we have people who do not fully appreciate this noble work for fear that someone unworthy may benefit from it. Those people should be plainly told that every human being in distress should be helped without considering the reason first.

"The Superintendent of the Morning Star Mission is a man of human experiences, grasping life right by its top; a Bible in one hand and in the other a sandwich.

"Pete McCarthy's work unveils the human side of everyday life in an average American small town. It reminds us that the Golden Rule 'DO UNTO OTHERS AS YOU WOULD

No Money Available To Repair Local Roads Says Will Co., Highway Supt.

L. G. Bruder of Mokena who is endeavoring to have the county repair the road west of Mokena, has received the following letter from G. H. Fletcher, Supt., of Highways of Will County:

"For your information, I am enclosing a Will County Highway Map on which I have indicated in red crayon the designated route of State Aid Route No. 64 which you will note starts at Mokena on the northwest side of the Rock Island Railroad to the west line of Sec. 13, New Lenox Township. This State Aid Route does not take in any portion of the east and west road which is north of your farm.

"At present we have no available funds with which to improve this highway, since all of our available money is being utilized in conjunction with the United States Government in the improvement of access roads in the vicinity of the munitions plants."

Mr. Bruder has replied to the letter as follows:

"I have your letter of June 11 and want to thank you for the map designating the route No. 64, State Aid, but note that there are no available funds with which to improve this highway as all the money is being used in conjunction with the United States Government for improvement of access roads in vicinity of munitions plants.

"Why should the money we pay for taxes and gas tax for the improvement of highways, be used to improve roads having access to Government Munitions Plants, since the Federal Government has appropriated large sums of money for these munitions plants and that should also take care of the roads in the neighborhoods of these plants, and the entire United States pay for these plants.

"According to your letter you have no funds available to improve this highway or put a railing on the bridge and I presume the only way we can improve this highway is by public subscription.

"I regret to hear that Will County is in such a bad condition financially that it can't pay for a few truck loads of stone to fill the holes and repair the railing on the bridge."

FRANKFORT ASKS THAT SAUK TRAIL ROAD BE IMPROVED

Mayor George Sangmeister of Frankfort has been advocating that the Sauk Trail road from Frankfort to the Will-Cook County line be improved and oiled and at a meeting of the Village Board held Monday night of this week, a resolution was drawn up and has been sent the Will County Board of Supervisors Good Roads Committee asking that body to have the county take up the improvement of the Sauk Trail as soon as possible. Mayor Sangmeister and the Frankfort Village Board are to be commended for their good work in this matter as the highway in question is travelled a good deal and is in need of attention.

HAVE OTHERS DO UNTO YOU" is not lost in our time of selfishness."

FRANKFORT AND MOKENA GROUPS TO HOLD OUTING

Don't forget! It's a date! Sunday, June 29th at the Frankfort Grove where the Frankfort and Mokena Bands are putting off their 5th annual picnic. At 2 p. m., there will be a massed band concert. In the evening the Kiwanis Band of Chicago Heights will present a concert and novelty numbers.

In the afternoon there will be races for everyone. Afternoon and evening the free vaudeville show will feature acts that will appear at the Chicago Stadium, July 4th. Among these will be Joe Sells (formerly of Sells Floto Circus and his acrobatic troupe of six girls, trick bicycle riders, jugglers, a daring and colorful tight rope act and the American Legion Champion baton twirler. Roy Gordon's popular orchestra will furnish music for dancing in the evening. Admission to the grounds is free and there will be plenty of free parking space. Be sure to come and enjoy the fun.

Child Genius Popular Only With Parents

Talented Children Escape
Discipline, Develop Individualism.

By ROGER SHAW

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

CHICAGO.—Gifted children are a pain in the neck. They are the pride and joy of their parents. And the special pride of the psychologists. They are also the special pet-hate of the psychologists. They are this and they are that, and nobody ever seems to know quite how to handle them, or get along with them.

They used to crush gifted children under the Old Testament and the strict Victorian heart-and-fireside technique. They made them do the goose-step. There was a German movie called "Maedchen in Uniform" that told the tale. English schools, too, are mostly run that way—the so-called traditional method.

There was a revolt against that method. It was nicknamed the "express-yourself" method. Under the express-yourselfists, anything went. Anything was all right. If the gifted child wanted to stand on his head, instead of doing his arithmetic, it was all for the best. It was developing its little personality in its own sweet little way. If the child wanted to stay up all night and read the Encyclopedia Britannica, so much the better. Loss of sleep might make it peevish, but in the long run the child would be the gainer. It had cashed in on its moment of excited curiosity, and a good thing, too.

Unconcerned Children.

By and large, gifted children are not pleasant children. That goes without saying. They themselves know this, generally speaking, but don't care. They are a bit unbridled. They rationalize all around the parental discipline, and tie it up in knots. They tend to be arrogant, and even condescending. Generally speaking, they know they are gifted children, and that's a headache from the word "go." They love long words. They are blasé. They know how to make their elders uncomfortable, and how the elders hate them for it! There's a perfectly good psychological reason for this. Child-appeal is very much like dog-appeal. What makes it appealing is trustful, dumb devotion which makes the adult feel flattered and superior. The adult naturally loves this, so he loves children and dogs as well. But wolves and gifted children do not share this engaging trait with dogs and normal children. Hence, wolves and gifted children are not so popular. Never look a gift-child in the mouth. He's liable to bite you. Beware!

When Thomas Babington Macaulay was a very young gifted child, he asked him how his finger felt. He had hurt the rosy little digit, somehow. The gifted little Macaulay replied: "Thank you, madam. The pain has somewhat abated." Macaulay's contemporary, John Stuart Mill, could read two foreign languages with considerable fluency when he was four. In the modern era, Braintrust Berle and Bob Hutchins have quite lived up to the Nineteenth-century English standard. So have London Punch and the New York New Yorker. A high percentage of their humor is based on the precocious chatterings of gifted

Quizzers Quiz Quints' Dr. Dafoe

When Dr. Allen Roy Dafoe brought the Dionne quintuplets into the world, he had to think fast if the five famous children were to survive. Now another set of five famous children, the Quiz Kids, again make him think fast. This time it is the good doctor who is in danger—of losing his reputation, as a scholar, as they fire a barrage of questions at him. He is holding Richard Williams (L.) and Gerard Darrow. In the rear are (L. to R.) Cynthia Cline, Van Tyke Tiers, and John Bishop.

children, and the gift-child spoofery of humiliated adults.

Discipline Returning.

There has, however, been a considerable reaction against letting the little supermen and supergirls express themselves with all the initial post-war freedom. Discipline is again asserting itself, in its most draconian forms. There is now a school of thought which one might call the neo-Victorian. It believes that children should be seen and not heard, and that—like Mussolini's trains, and troops—they should be made to run on time. One "reactionary" spokesman for this group of counter-reformers is Dr. Henry Link, the eminent psychologist. Dr. Link is convincing, and he is highly articulate. He thinks that group games and individual self-abnegation are far more valuable character-forming factors than the rugged childish individualism that flourished in America in the twenties and the thirties.

Dr. Link—and he is typical of his school of thought—dislikes intraverts. He believes that pampered gift-kids should not be encouraged to do what they want when they want it. He prefers the age-old virtues, and the allegedly eternal verities. He thinks that the gift-bairn should be compelled to play extravert tennis, willing or no, even when the gift-bairn would much prefer to go on the licentious spree of studying prehistoric natural history, or submarine conchology. He believes that the little gifties should be shoved into bridge, systematically and without stint, even though the Wunderkinder think bridge is pretty lowbrow and intellectually sterile. Spare the rod, spoil the child, according to the neo-Victorians. Their opponents, of course, label them "intellectual fascists." The intellectual fascists, so-called, come back by mud-slinging the express-yourselfists as "cultural bolsheviks." Get your gift-child and take your choice.

Physical Growth Also.

Gift-children, the bright little things, are not undersized, pale, and anemic. They are generally bigger and more active than the average, and hearty, too—sometimes too hearty, say the observers. They sometimes do seem to be smaller than the others. That's merely an optical delusion. The answer is simple. They have been pushed ahead into classes of older children, who are bigger merely because they are older. In their own age-class, which they have out-stripped, the gifted children are big and bouncing. In other words, gift-children may be ascetic, but they don't look it. They may be greasy grinds and little book worms, but grinding and worming have built them up, somehow, physically as well as mentally.

There is another startling discovery about the gift-bairns. It is this: Their genius is not closely linked with dark insanity. Most of us have always thought otherwise. We have been led to believe, and even to swear to it, that genius and nuttiness are close pals—almost Siamese twins, to be exact. If genius oversteps, or over-reaches itself, it's just too bad for the genius. All this, apparently, science now tends to disprove. Insane asylums are not actually filled with what used to be gifted children. As a matter of fact, say the statisticians, gift-kids are more stable in their emotional reactions than the plodding little hewers of wood and drawers of water. This latest datum, frankly, does not make sense to your correspondent, but there it is, in black and white.

Local Division Offices Handle U. S. Purchasing

WASHINGTON.—How can a business man sell to the government? Approximately 2,500 government purchasing agencies purchase some 300,000 different articles. Indeed, the government buys some quantities of almost everything produced in this country.

The magnitude of the government purchasing set-up, especially in this grave emergency when first emphasis is necessarily placed upon defense equipment for the expanding army and navy and for Great Britain, tends to confuse many manufacturers who desire to co-operate 100 per cent.

Actually, government purchases are made on a very simple formula. The specifications are not complicated. In fact, the biggest buyer in the world—Uncle Sam—has the simplest system of purchasing supplies, equipment and services. The system functions something like a large mail order house, except that where the latter sells to thousands, the government buys from thousands.

The initial venture of selling to the government will, of course, present some new problems. None of these problems, however, are necessarily complicated. In order to help manufacturers solve them, Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, early in his administration set up a service and information office, staffed with men who have had years of service in government and have recently completed months of intensive study of the purchase systems of each governmental office.

Write for Information.

Consequently, the service and information office is equipped to inform manufacturers whom they should contact and exactly how to do so. A manufacturer who desires to co-operate with the government in the present emergency, and lacks specific information as to how to proceed, is invited to apply to this unit, room 1060, department of commerce, Washington, D. C. The effectiveness of the assistance rendered by the office is demonstrated by the large number of telegrams and letters of appreciation which it has received.

Many manufacturers apparently have felt that if they desire to transact business with the government they must either come to Washington in person or employ somebody familiar with government purchasing methods.

The service and information office strongly urges manufacturers not to come to Washington, at least until they have carried on preliminary negotiations by mail with the purchasing agency that handles their particular products. They are advised not to employ outsiders on a commission or other basis.

WASHINGTON.—The rumors concerning U. S. fighting ships coming through the Panama canal to do their part—scouting and patrolling—in the Battle of the Atlantic are true. No official information is available, and details could not be printed if known, under the voluntary censorship rulings. But it is not giving Germany any information to say that a large number of vessels of the U. S. navy which have been in the Pacific are now in the Atlantic, and there is no blinking the fact that Berlin knows why they moved.

In fact Berlin probably knows just what ships have been so moved, for there is not a naval officer who does not believe that word is gotten to Germany about every ship, naval or merchant, which passes through the canal, with as much further information as to its destination, etc., as can be obtained by Nazi observers in the Canal Zone.

The really interesting part of the whole business, from a naval standpoint, is that this withdrawal of a number of ships from the Pacific means that the administration is no longer worried about the Far Eastern situation. Conviction is growing here that Japan will make no move against Singapore or the Dutch East Indies in the near future.

Japan has known for some time that there would be plenty of shooting right away if she made such a move. She has known also that the augmented force of big bombers at Manila and Singapore—where the British have been receiving American-made bombers for months despite the urgent need for them in Britain and Alexandria—boded no good for her if hostilities should begin.

VULNERABLE OIL RESERVE

The importance of this particular threat is that the locations of all the Japanese military oil reserves are well known to both the British and American naval forces, and that it would be a simple matter to destroy them, thus immobilizing the Japanese fleet.

Ever since the earthquake of 1922 Japan has not dared to store her naval oil reserves underground. She lost virtually all her oil at that time when the earthquake opened up the underground storage vaults, and she has been afraid to risk it since. Hence her oil reserves are particularly vulnerable to air attack.

Japan has plenty of fighting and bombing planes, but in this war it has been shown that while air power is tremendously important in attack, it is almost impossible to prevent bombing by the enemy no matter how inferior his air strength. Thus the British have been able to bomb German cities and the French, Belgian, Dutch and German ports almost at will, despite the fact that the Nazi air force has been tremendously superior.

Had Japan moved into the Dutch East Indies immediately after the invasion by Germany of the low countries, the resistance there would have been pitiful. Now it is a different story. The Dutch have moved heaven and earth to provide a defense, so that it would be a real battle. That might not deter the Japanese, but the U. S. and British threat behind it are now believed to be conclusive.

So Japan will wait, hoping that, with German victory, her path to plunder in the Far East will no longer be blocked.

Auto Production And 'Cartailment'

Pessimists in the automobile industry predict that another six months will see the end of production of passenger cars in this country for the "duration." Incidentally representatives of the industry in Washington are particularly bitter about the proposed restrictions on the manufacture of trucks. They are perfectly willing to accept a total blackout so far as passenger vehicles are concerned, as a national defense necessity, but they insist that the biggest problem confronting the country, and from a national defense standpoint only, is going to be transportation. Hence, they contend, trucks will prove to be of extreme importance.

Truck production may be limited for a while, but when the national preparedness drive really gets hot there will be clamor from the government for increased truck production.

In World War No. 1 transportation soon became one of the major problems. The government eventually took over the railroads and operated them all from Washington. In those days the highways were pretty poor compared with now, and the heavy movement over them, coupled with a terrific winter in 1917-1918, left them anything but a motorist's paradise.

Your Dreams May Tell Secrets About Yourself

INSTALLMENT 16 THE STORY SO FAR:

Dusty King and Lew Gordon had built up a vast string of ranches. King was killed by his powerful and unscrupulous competitor, Ben Thorpe. Bill Roper, King's adopted son, was determined to avenge his death in spite of the opposition of his sweetheart.

CHAPTER XXII

We're making a big mistake, not to hang him and be done with it," Red Kane said.

They were two days from Fork Creek now. This long and narrow room, which Jim Leathers paced so restlessly, was the kitchen of the main house at Walk Lasham's southwest camp—a convenient stop-over on the way to Sundance, where Roper was to be turned over to Ben Thorpe.

"The quicker we hang him, the better we'll be off," Red Kane said again.

Wearily, doggedly, Jim Leathers rolled a cigarette. He took his time about replying. "Seems like you already said that once before."

"I'm liable to keep on saying it," Red Kane told him. "Things is different now."

In the doorway, behind the two men who watched Bill Roper, a girl now appeared, a slim, full-breasted girl, whose dark, slanting eyes had sometimes troubled Bill Roper before now.

He had not been surprised to find Marquita here in Walk Lasham's southwest cow camp, to which his captors had brought him. He had guessed, when he had last talked to her in Miles City, that she was Walk Lasham's girl; and in spite of her expressed eagerness to leave Lasham and ride with Roper, he realized that Marquita still had to live in some way.

Girls of her stamp could not afford to throw down such a man as Lasham, until more interesting opportunities offered.

Her face was impassive now, but one of the slanting dark eyes narrowed in a definite signal to Roper. The combination of Spanish and Indian blood in this girl from the Texas border gave her a lithe, lazy grace, and a haunting depth of dark eyes; and the same blood made her unaccountable—sometimes stoic and smouldering, sometimes livened by the lightning flashes of an inner fire.

Undoubtedly she was capable of a passionate devotion, and an equally passionate cruelty. Anything could happen in a situation which included Marquita—with Marquita in love.

For a moment Bill Roper resented the fact that he couldn't be interested in any girl except Jody Gordon—a girl who didn't want him or need him. All the worst aspects of his own situation were apparent to him, then. He was an outlaw wanted the length of the Trail; probably would be an outlaw all the rest of his life, which gave every promise of being a short one. That even Marquita wanted him, or had any use for him, was a gift which he should have been glad to accept. What he had to think of now, though, was that Marquita was extremely likely to precipitate a lot of immediate disturbance.

Troubled, he wished to shake his head, or in some other way caution her that she must make no attempt to interfere. Roper had no intention of ever coming into the hands of Ben Thorpe alive. Somewhere between this place and Sundance, where Thorpe waited, he would make his play, however slim the chance.

Yet he would rather take his chances with some unforeseen opportunity later, when they were again on the trail, than to be plunged into some helpfully intended situation which the girl might devise—with danger to herself and questionable advantage to him. She had never brought him any luck.

He was unable, however, with the eyes of his two enemies upon him, to signal her in any way.

"Ben wanted him alive, if I could get him," Jim Leathers said stubbornly. "Well, I got him alive, and I aim to keep him that way. You bums ain't going to talk me into anything different just because you figure a dead man is easier to pack."

Bill Roper listened sardonically. In the two days spent in traveling from Fork Creek rendezvous, the scalp wound which had brought him down had nearly healed; but when he laced his fingers behind his head he winced and dropped his hands again.

It was typical of the quality of his captors that his hands were not tied or manacled. They told him where to sit and they made him stay put, and they were careful that no opportunity was given him to snatch a gun from an unwary holster; but these were merely the routine precautions of sensible men. For these riders were the picked gunfighters of Ben Thorpe's scores of outfits. They did not fear Roper, would not have feared him had he been armed.

Bill Roper had no doubt that Red Kane and perhaps one or two of the others would kill a doomed prisoner for no more reason than Jim Leathers had suggested.

The Lasham camp had been boiling with news as Jim Leathers' men had ridden in at dusk with their prisoner. Much had happened on the range while Leathers had waited out Bill Roper at the Fork Creek camp. The news that had reached

Jody Gordon, and her father. After breaking Thorpe in Texas, Roper conducted a great raid upon Thorpe's vast herds in Montana. Jody was captured by seven of Thorpe's men. Roper and Shoshone Wilce rescued her in a surprise attack. Shoshone Lasham's southwest camp was broken, and seemed to have been little understood by the men who had brought it; but Roper, with his inside knowledge of the force he had turned loose against Lasham, could piece together its meaning well enough. Lasham's southwest outpost, with its big herds of picked cattle wintering in this deepest and richest of the Montana grass, had been more powerfully manned than any other Lasham camp. But twice in the past week frantic calls for reinforcements from the outfits to the east had drained most of this man power away—first five picked gunfighters, then a dozen cowboys more, until only five men had been left.

The messengers who had killed their ponies to come for help had brought the camp a fragmentary story which gave Roper the deepest satisfaction.

In their tales of incredible losses, of raiders who struck night after night at far separated points, driving cattle unheard-of distances to disappear weirdly in the northern wastes, Roper read the success of his Great Raid.

Dry Camp Pierce was sweeping westward across Montana like a destroying wind; by unexpected daring, by speed of movement, by wild riding relays which punished themselves no less than the cattle they drove, Dry Camp was feeding an increasing stream of Lasham beef into the hands of Iron Dog's bands, who spirited the beef forever from the face of Montana. By the very boldness of its conception and the wild savagery of its execution the unbelievable Great Raid was meeting with success.

And now Dry Camp had struck even deeper than Roper had planned, lifting the best of Lasham's beeves from almost within gunshot of Lasham's strongest camp. So well had Dry Camp planned, and so steadily did the luck hold, that a full day had passed before the loss inflicted by the raiders was discovered. The five remaining cowboys at the southwest camp were only tightening their cinches as Jim Leathers rode in.

Most of the Leathers party had joined the Lasham men in pursuit of Dry Camp's raiders. Only Jim Leathers himself and the unwilling Red Kane remained to convoy Roper to Ben Thorpe at Sundance.

Because of the confusion involved in the organization of the pursuit, the night was now far gone; already it was long past midnight.

"There's still another reason," Red Kane said, "why it would be better to hang him now. Suppose that wild bunch of his knows he's here?"

"How the devil would they know that?" Leathers said with disgust. "Maybe they was scouting us with spy glasses as we come over the trail today."

"If they was, they would have landed on us right then, in place of waiting till we got into camp."

"Maybe the girl run to them—"

"The girl! You make me sick."

"Have it your own way."

"You're darned right I'll have it my own way. I don't want to hear no more about it. And I'll tell you this: if your trigger finger gets itchy while you're on watch tonight, you better soak it in a pan of water, and leave the gun be. Because if anything comes up while you're on watch such that you got to shoot him, by God, next thing you got to shoot me—you understand?"

and Jody rode to a prearranged spot, but Roper was captured while fighting a rear guard action to assure their escape. While waiting for Roper to meet them at their secret hiding place, Jody saw Shoshone fall down, dead.

"I guess it could be done," Red Kane said nastily.

Leathers ignored this, and Red Kane disappeared. This time the door shut after him.

Leathers said, "Get me a drink." Marquita unhurriedly set out a bottle and a glass on the table beside Jim Leathers' elbow.

"A deck of cards," Leathers said. She produced this, too.

Marquita strolled over to Leathers, the high heels of her slippers clicking lazily on the puncheon floor. "Why are you so cross with me?" she asked reproachfully. She moved behind Jim Leathers, and slowly ran her fingers through his hair.

"Ain't going to get you a thing," Jim Leathers said sourly.

"No?" said Marquita. For a moment one hand was lost in the folds of her skirt; then, unhesitatingly, she planted the muzzle of a .38 against the back of Jim Leathers' neck.

There was a moment of absolute silence, absolute immobility. Jim Leathers' eyes were perfectly still upon Bill Roper's face, as still as his hands, in one of which a playing card hung suspended. But though his face did not notably change, Marquita, with her .38 pressed hard against the back of the gunman's neck, had turned white; her mouth worked as she tried to speak, and her wide eyes were upon Bill Roper in terrified appeal. Perhaps no more than a second could have passed in that way, but to them all it seemed as if time had stopped, so that that little fraction of eternity held them motionless forever.

Bill Roper, moving up and forward, exploded into action smoothly, like a cat. It was the length of the room between them that saved Jim Leathers then.

Leathers twisted, lightning fast. Marquita's gun blazed into the floor as her wrist swept down in the grip of Leathers' left hand; and Bill Roper checked a yard from the table as Leathers' gun flashed into sight, becoming instantly steady. Marquita sagged away from Leathers, and her gun clattered upon the puncheons; but although Leathers' whole attention was concentrated upon Roper, Marquita's wrist remained locked in his grasp.

The gunfighter's voice was more hard and cold than the steel of his gun; it was as hard and cold as his eyes.

"Get back there where you was," Bill Roper shrugged and moved back.

Leathers flung Marquita away from him and with his left hand picked up her gun as the door of the storeroom was torn open and Red Kane bulged in.

"What the—"

"This thing come behind me and stuck a gun in my neck," Leathers told him.

"The devil! You hurt?"

"Hell, no! I took it away from her."

Gently, tentatively, his long fingers ran over his wounded leg. That bullet wound in his thigh must have tortured him unthinkably through the two days in the saddle; and it must have been jerking at his nerves now with red-hot hooks, roused by the swift action that had preserved his command.

His face had turned gray so that the black circles under his eyes made them seem to burn from death's-head hollows, and his face, which had changed so little in this moment of action was relaxed into an ugly contortion. Slowly the gray color was turning to the purple of a dark and terrible anger.

"By God," said Red Kane, "I told you we should have hung him!"

"You told me right," Jim Leathers said. The burn of his eyes never for a moment left Bill Roper's face. "You was right and I was wrong. I should have hung him at the start."

A pleasurable hope came into Red Kane's face. "Well—it ain't too late!"

"No, it ain't too late. Tie his hands."

Keeping Roper between himself and Leathers, so that his partner's gun bore steadily upon Roper's belt buckle, Kane lashed Roper's hands behind him. The frost-stiff rope bit deep.

"Tie up this girl," Leathers ordered when Kane had finished. "I want her to see this show."

Marquita said, "I'm sorry, Bill." Her voice was broken by hard, jerking sobs, and tears were running down her face; yet somehow her words sounded dull and dead. "I did the best I could."

"You did fine," Roper said. "That was a game try." Hobbling on his stiff leg, Leathers moved to the outer door, flung it open; coatless, he stopped and signaled Red Kane back with one hand.

"Red, get back! Get out of line!" With the quick instinct of a man who has always been in trouble, Red Kane jumped back into the room, carrying Bill Roper with him. They all could hear now the sound of running horses.

THE GOSPEL IS TAKEN INTO EUROPE

LESSON TEXT—Acts 16:6-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come over into Macedonia and help us.—Acts 16:9.

America is coming to the fore in the thinking of a confused world as the final hope of democracy and religious freedom. Europe, or at least most of Europe, represents in our thinking dictatorship, a totalitarian disregard for the personal rights of man, including his freedom to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience.

It is therefore very appropriate that on this "Fourth of July" Sunday, when patriotism has been much in our thoughts, that we remind ourselves in the study of our Sunday school lesson that the roots of American life, both cultural and religious, reach back into the European soil on which our forefathers dwelt. Much of that which we as Christians count precious has come to us because Paul, the missionary, was responsive to the leading of the Holy Spirit and carried the gospel into the heathendom of Europe, from whence, in due time, it came to our own land.

It was a crucial point in the history of Christianity; yes, and of the world, when the gospel came to Europe.

I. By Providential Hindrance (vv. 6-8).

Not only are "the steps of a good man ordered by the Lord" (Ps. 37:23), but his steps as well. That is not an easy lesson to learn. Let us remember that we may be as much in the will of the Lord when all our efforts are thwarted as when they prosper.

Paul had set out on a second journey to carry out a follow-up campaign in the cities where he had already preached. This was a good plan and had God's blessing (see v. 5). But soon we find that word "forbidden" (v. 6) and then "suffered not" (v. 7). The Holy Spirit began to close doors to the gospel preacher. Now what? Shall he go on in determined self-will? Or shall he become discouraged and embittered in his soul? No, let him wait, for God is guiding him by providential hindrance, which is soon to be followed.

II. By Divine Guidance (vv. 9, 10).

The Spirit spoke to Paul in a vision, revealing the divine purpose that the gospel should go over into Macedonia. The Spirit leads in our day, possibly not by visions, but by impelling inward prompting complemented and checked by the teaching of Scripture and by providential circumstances, and thus a man may know what is the will of God for him.

A word of caution is needed at this point. Some earnest Christian people go astray by projecting their own desires and purposes into the place where they seem to be the will of God, and thus do themselves and others, and Christianity itself, much harm. The three things should agree—(1) the inner prompting of the Spirit, (2) the teaching of God's Word, and (3) God's hand in our outward circumstances.

If these three do not agree, the Christian does well to wait, prayerfully, expectantly, for the Lord's further guidance.

III. Through a Faithful Witness (vv. 11-14a).

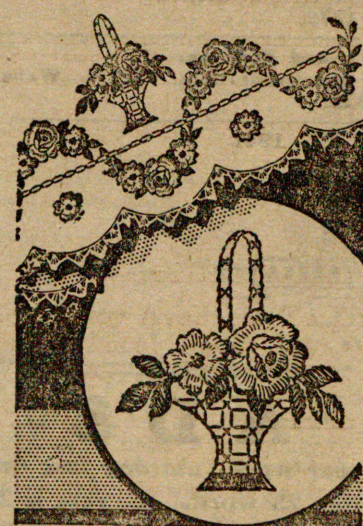

The gospel came to Europe because Paul and his fellow workers were faithful to their calling. When God led, they went to Macedonia (vv. 11, 12), where they sought out those who were in the place of prayer (v. 13). Paul spoke to them about Christ (v. 14). There he met the man of Macedonia who turned out to be a woman. For some reason the men were absent from the place of prayer on that all-important Sabbath morning. They were undoubtedly the ancient counterpart of our present day men who are "brothers-in-law" to the church, these foolish men who seem to assume that a bit of "religion" second hand through the wife or children will suffice.

IV. Through a Receptive Heart (vv. 14b-15).

God sent an obedient messenger to the place where He had a prepared heart. Lydia was a woman of distinction, business ability, and high moral character. But she knew, and Paul knew, that even good people need to be saved. We do well to keep that fact before us.

Paul spoke the truth of God, who opened Lydia's heart. Observe that she not only received the Word of God into her own heart, but at once gave herself to the task of passing it on. The first thing she could do was to give aid and comfort to the messenger of the truth, and she did that at once. Be assured that from that day on she did all she could to prosper the gospel on its way through Europe and to the ends of the earth. Have we done likewise?

CHESKCHAMY NEWS

The Chesckchamay Camp Fire Girls held their regular meeting at the home of their Guardian, Mrs. Thelma Crist. The meeting was opened by the President, Joan Crist, the minutes read by the Secretary, Marjorie Snyder and Treasurer's report given by Jo-Anne Schmidt. This was a very interesting meeting. After all business had been cared for the girls worked diligently assembling symbols preparatory to making their head bands. Many completed her head band design. Joan Crist is the second girl to. Many avenues of thought were opened, and it was very gratifying to the Guardian and the Asst. Guardian, Mrs. Trudie Swisher, as they realized how intelligently these young girls planned this phase of their work.

Next the girls with busy fingers tore into shreds quantities of paper. Why? Because they are going to make vases out of paper pulp. While this was going on the Assistant Guardian told them the story of the Chicago Tribune's paper mills at Manistique, Mich.

The girls were very interested in this. Ice cream cones were served to all but one and she went home with a nickel in her hand. Talk about a real test of will power, well Anna Mae is a top notcher.

IN MEMORIAM

KNIPPEL. In fond and loving memory of our dear son and brother, Raymond J. Knippel, who left us so suddenly fourteen years ago, June 29, 1927.

Fourteen years this very morn
He went away and left us forlorn;
The years can never, never erase
The memory of his loving face.
No more his laughter daily rings
Amid those he held dear.
No more his clever humor brings
A warning welcome cheer,
And when and where we miss him most (forgetting, turn to seek)
Those times will show us our great loss
More than mere word could speak.
MOTHER, DAD, BROTHER AND SISTER.

Mr. Edward Sternberg of Chicago died after a long illness on June 20 at the exact age of 41 years, it being his day of birth. His funeral took place on June 23 from the Doty Funeral Home, Chicago. He was a member of Frankfort Lodge 1082 A. F. Frankfort Public School Alumni, as he in early youth made his home here with his aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Henry Geuther Sr. He received his entire grade school education here. He leaves to mourn his death, his wife, three sisters and one brother.

besides many more relatives.

Friends and relatives surprised Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Sangmeister in their home on Saturday, June 21 to help them celebrate their 30th wedding anniversary. Pinochle was played and the honored couple was presented a purse in honor of the occasion. A lunch was served in which a large wedding cake, baked by Russell Hossbach of Joliet, was indeed a wonderful attraction.

The Amite Sewing club members spent June 18 in Chicago. They attended the play "My Sister Eileen" after which they had dinner in the Stevens hotel. This is an annual get-together in which a social day, is enjoyed by the club.

On Tuesday, June 17 the Will Co. 4-H club outing was held on the George Hasenjaeger farm. Mr. Hasenjaeger farm has been electrified with all modern equipment. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Christian Science" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 29.

The Golden Text was, "The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God" (Isaiah 52: 10).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah. And they shall teach no more every man his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord" (Jeremiah 31: 31, 34).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science reveals incontrovertibly that Mind is All-in-all, that the only realities are the divine Mind and idea. This great fact is not, however, seen to be supported by sensible evidence, until its divine Principle is demonstrated by healing the sick and thus proved absolute and divine. This proof once seen, no other conclusion can be reached" (p. 109).

THESE FIRMS WILL BE BROADCAST OVER WCLS, JOLIET,

TIME TO BE ANNOUNCED
IN OUR NEXT ISSUE

WCLS Broadcasting Station

Under the Courteous and Efficient Management of MR. HOLT

7 EAST CLINTON STREET

JOLIET, ILLINOIS

DIAL 4761

One of the community's most necessary concerns is located in Joliet, phone 4761. So great has become the radio business of the nation that the modern radio station is an essential factor in every community of taste and refinement.

The radio—the greatest of all later-day inventions and a modern miracle that has forever destroyed distance. Distance today as regards human communication is comparable to covering the world with your hat.

Today's news, market reports, amusements by the world's best entertainers, all are instantly brought from the four corners of the earth to entertain the family, comfortably seated about the old fireside.

Station WCLS is the favorite station for both advertisers and audience in this part of the country, as it offers excellent service and its management, Mr. Holt, has made it extremely popular with its atmosphere of friendliness. Station WCLS is one of the most modern stations in the countryside. Aside from the very best equipment they have radio operators and broadcasters who are plainly understood in all announcements, no matter whether it is merely the market, baseball, or other events you will find that the voice of this station rings clear and distinct. Farmers and others in the surrounding territory greatly appreciate the service they offer as they are enabled to sit at home and listen in on all the major events that are transpiring in the world.

Commercial broadcasting over this station has become very popular among business men over this part of the state as well as national advertisers. When your business is broadcast here it will sit up and take notice, as it carries both the element of surprise and novelty which are valuable in advertising.

Their rates are reasonable and service is good. All you have to do is to call them on the phone and they will arrange all the details. If you do not happen to have in mind subject matter for the occasion they will write it for you, furnish you the announcer or put you on the radio just as you desire.

DOUGLAS-EDWARDS CAMERA SHOP

205-207 Western Ave.

Joliet, Ill.

Phone 2-8050

The Douglass-Edwards Camera Shop offer an excellent service in Kodaks, Cameras, Motion Picture Cameras, Projectors, Screens, Films, and accessories and carry a complete and well selected stock.

Every family should have a camera of some size and take pictures of the family at different times, pictures of scenes on trips and other occurrences which aid in the placing of the family history in album form and in pictures.

They feature a large stock of all sizes of Kodaks and have all the equipment for home movies, and especially feature the home moving picture projector, which gives you in the home a fine reproduction apparatus for your films. It may be fitted with attachments for the proper showing of pictures in color and gives a steady, clear reproduction which will afford constant satisfaction and delight.

The Kodak finishing department has the reputation of doing fine quality work. Drop in here with your negatives or just mail them in and you will see how rapidly they will develop them and have everything ready for you. The work is high class and very reasonable.

In this review we are pleased to compliment The Douglass-Edwards Camera Shop upon the part they are playing in the life of the period and would say that every family appoint someone to make a visit to this store and get acquainted with the latest in the way of cameras.

SUPREME RADIATOR & BODY CO.

111 East Clinton St.

Joliet, Ill.

Phone 5471

MR. MORRIS SAPER, Manager

Offer 24-Hour Service

This company is equipped with the most modern devices for the rolling out of fenders and the repairing of bodies and can complete any job so that it cannot be detected even by very close scrutiny. Men are employed at this work who are careful and have an eye to symmetry so that the design of the repair coordinates with the other parts of the body or is just like the other fenders.

They offer an excellent service in Duco and Dulux painting and do the best work in this department. Here you will make your choice from a wide variety of the season's most popular colors and by having them paint your car you are assured of having a distinctly beautiful car returned to you.

They are prepared to give you any kind of upholstery you desire, repair all kinds of tops from the oldest to the latest, repair all kinds of radiators, straighten axles and frames and in fact are prepared for the complete rebuilding of wrecked cars.

At the call of the public, at all times, is their modern wrecking car which answers promptly all calls and is efficiently manned with mechanics who will get you out of all trouble. They will take the car in, repair the trouble, put the equipment in first class condition and when turned over to you. You will have no remembrance of your accident.

In this review we are glad to compliment Mr. Saper on his excellent management, excellent materials, expert workmanship, rapid service, and suggest that anyone who is in need of wheel aligning, body or fender repairs would do well to drive around and have a talk with him.

In this Review you will find listed at least one or more representatives of each line of business in Joliet. These firms were selected because of their reputation for Quality, Merchandise, Variety of Stock or Service, Fair and Honorable Dealings, Moderate Prices and their Sincere Efforts to Please their Patrons in every way.

Keep this Directory in your home and refer to it whenever you need anything in their line. It will make a handy reference.

MR. FRED ALLEN, Manager

The A. W. Hays Co., Joliet is one of the up-to-date and progressive concerns in this section of the state, greatly aiding in our building progress, their products being a contribution that is making more enduring and beautiful homes.

Their concrete waterproof foundation blocks and "Haydite" light weight building blocks were created from materials at hand in the right proportions of cement, sand and clay and properly made so as to answer all tests of compression and will build a permanent building that will be passed by architects and building inspectors. These blocks will build buildings that are practically fireproof, most residential and commercial buildings are stuccoed and present an excellent appearance aside from being a building that will last through the ages.

Building contractors are always confident of their blocks as they have a reputation of excellent quality which they have built up by years of service. They have a large stock and will be glad to show you buildings built with them.

The "Haydite" Blocks are especially superior building material and are stronger than the ordinary cinder block. The "Haydite" block is the choice of discriminating builders. It is approved by the Underwriters, having passed the most rigorous tests far more severe than any actual conditions it will encounter.

In this comprehensive review of our industrial progress it is essential that prominent mention be made of this enterprise under the very competent and efficient management of Mr. Fred Allen. It has been one of the vital factors in the development of this section, and when in Joliet we suggest that you drop in and get personally acquainted with the Manager.

WILL COUNTY CLEANERS & DYERS

Office and Plant, 500 Walnut St. Phone 5231; Branch Store in Elks Bldg., Joliet Phone 6531; Also Branch at Lockport at 902 State St., Phone 396 and Lemont, Phone 191.

Will County Cleaners and Dyers offer the people of this section of the state complete service and have a modern plant where all work is done under their supervision.

They have made a thorough study of the business both from wide reading and long experience and have built a plant that is thoroughly modern in every way and equipped according to the latest ideas for all the work they undertake. They use the best processes in cleaning which leaves the garment fresh and clean. In every department they have people who have a delicate sense of color distinction.

They feature work on suits, coats, overcoats, dresses, furs, gloves, caps, hats, curtains, draperies, fine silks and woollens, comforts and many household effects. No matter what you have it is well to consult them as they clean and press just about everything.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kodiak, proprietors, save the people much in the way of clothing as by their process clothes look like new and if you will get your soiled togs together and take them in you will find that they will look so good that in many cases it will be unnecessary to buy new ones.

In this review we are glad to compliment this progressive establishment and to refer its activities to all of our readers.

RAILWAY
LABOR UNION DEMANDS
WOULD COST
900 Million Dollars
A YEAR

THE labor unions have made their demands upon the railways of the United States—and through the railways upon the PUBLIC. These demands are vastly larger in proportion than any they have ever made. The economical and efficient operation of the railways is vital to the nation's defense effort. Therefore, the Western Railways present to the public the following facts:

The labor unions representing engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and switchmen are demanding a 30 per cent increase in wages, amounting to 190 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay are the highest in history.

Other unions representing a greater number of railway employees are demanding wage increases ranging as high as 95 per cent—averaging 47 per cent—and amounting to 580 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay also are the highest in history.

Thus the wage increases being demanded by the labor unions amount to 770 million dollars a year, an average increase in excess of 41 per cent.

In addition, certain of these labor unions have demanded advances in their pay not included in the above figures, and more rules for the creation of unnecessary jobs.

The situation, then, is this: The total cost of complying with all the demands made would be approximately 900 million dollars a year!

The average weekly earnings of railway employees are now 15 per cent higher than in the peak year 1929, while the cost of living is 12 per cent less.

The demands of the railway labor unions are being made when the entire nation has just been asked to make a supreme effort for National Defense.

The railways cannot meet these demands without a great increase in the cost of transportation. They exceed by more than 700 million dollars the income that the railways had left after paying their annual expenses, taxes and charges in 1940.

The railways have a vitally important job before them. They need all their resources to continue adequately to serve you and contribute effectively toward the National Defense Program.

Every Woman Should Wear A Hat

No woman is fully dressed unless she has a hat on her head too, says Carrie Munn, New York social registerite famous for her hats and general chic in clothes. Mrs. Munn, now a designer of hats and dresses, also recommends several hats for each costume. The one she is wearing is a flower hat of white carnations with poppies and green leaves between. The veiling is of coarse white mesh, a fashion Mrs. Munn helped introduce. Hat and suit are Munn originals.

Bring the cool of the night right into your home!

NIGHT AIR COOLING SYSTEM

Pulls in Nature's cool night air as it flushes out hot, sticky air... Provides an entire night of restful sleep for less than the cost of an ice cream cone.

Why should your house be like a "bake-oven"—when all around you, waiting to be put to use, is Nature's cool, fresh night air. Harness that air—bring it into your home—and you'll keep cool and comfortable during even hottest weather.

A night air cooling system is one of the simplest home cooling methods ever devised. And it is also one of the most effective. Powerful, slow-speed fans with extraordinary air displacement qualities are available for all types and sizes of houses. Portable models may be used in the attic or in individual rooms. Built-in models are designed for use in attic windows or ventilators, and can be easily installed.

Here is a wise investment that pays big dividends in cool nights of restful sleep. Investigate it now—enjoy it all summer long, for years to come.

... and Electricity is cheap!

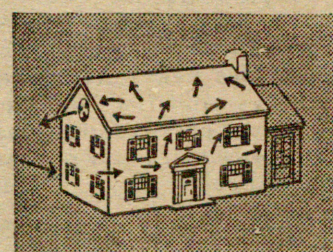

A COMPLETE CHANGE OF AIR—IN 3 MINUTES OR LESS!

At sundown, open the downstairs windows and turn on the attic fan.

As the powerful fan pulls in cool night air, stale hot air is expelled.

PALOS PARK

By Dorothy Robson

I believe the coolest spot in Palos this week was on top of the hill at the Community Center Foundation. Many people from Chicago and suburbs took advantage of the breeze over the week end. The Homewood Missionary Society held a meeting and potluck luncheon. The Girl Scouts of Congress Park were out for a camp period. The Homebuilders of the Midlothian Methodist Church held a picnic on Sunday and in the evening the Young People's Society of the Trinity Methodist Church held Vesper Services.

The Red Cross Work Class met Monday afternoon at the Village hall.

A picnic was held Saturday afternoon in the forest preserve at 80th. Avenue and 119th. st. by the Sunday School of the Lutheran Church on 72nd St. in Chicago. About 100 children, their parents and friends were present. Games were played and a group enjoyed a hayrack ride at Pete Rink's Riding Stable. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar D. Ireland and family of Homewood spent Saturday night visiting Jessie L. Mains. Boy Scout Troup No. 699 of Palos Park took a 5 mile hike Sat. with scout master Irving Pronger in Chicago.

A miscellaneous wedding shower was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Oelke in honor of Hazel Smith's approaching marriage June 29 to Everett Heatherwick. She received many useful gifts from her friends and relatives who attended the shower. Games were played and a delicious luncheon was served.

Happy Birthday Department

Beverly Powell was surprised on her eleventh birthday with a party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Lowry in Midlothian on Sun. night. Her birthday wasn't until Monday the 23rd. so it was a real surprise to her. Those attending Mr. and Mrs. Ted Willard of Joliet Mr. and Mrs. Frank Powell, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Powell and family. Beverly received many beautiful presents and well wishes. This was really a double celebration for it was also Mrs. Willard's birthday. The Palos Juniors held their regular meeting Fri. night. Jane Clark and Elizabeth Olsen were initiated into the club.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. Clem A. Lesicki is up and around again after her recent illness. The P.T.A. held their annual picnic at the shelter house on 86th. avenue

Mrs. Ethel Y. Pronger was soloist at the meeting of the Hazel Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star in Crete, Illinois on Tues night.

Mrs. Hayes Treadway and family and Beverly Powell spent all day Monday visiting the Strand family.

Mrs. Jessie L. Mains and Dorothy spent two days down town in Chicago on a shopping and curiosity spree.

Repairs have been completed on the barn which was so terribly damaged in the wind storm a month ago on the John McCord farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Braasch, Howard Braasch and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Homerding attended the ball game in Orland Sunday and dined at Brennan's after the game.

ORLAND PARK

Mrs. Katherine Cox, mother of Mrs. Harry Cox of Blue Island and George Cox and Mrs. Thomas Wheeler of Orland, underwent an operation for removal of a tumor at the Lake Shore Hospital in Chicago June 20th. She is reported as convalescing very satisfactorily.

Mr. and Mrs. James Benton and Mrs. Benton's brother, Buddy Cox, are on an auto trip through Texas. They will visit friends in Waco and in Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Town have returned from a trip to Bellevue, O.

The strawberry social held in the Methodist church grounds June 18th attracted a good attendance and proved a financial success as was also the bake sale held June 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kay left June 25th for an auto trip to Camp Croft, Spartanburg, S. C., to visit Mrs. Kay's brother, Eugene Peters, who is serving in Co. D, 37th Training Battalion at that camp. Mrs. Kay's mother, Mrs. Julia Peters of River Forest and Miss Agnes Bernasek of Cicero accompanied them. On the return trip they will visit relatives in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Bud Cox and Mildred Doctor, selected by the Orland Park Post of the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary to attend the special summer schools sponsored by these organizations will leave Saturday, June 28. The girls school will be in connection with MacMurray College, Jacksonville, and the boys school will be held at Springfield.

Volunteers for Red Cross Sewing met at the home of Mrs. Ella Loebe on Tuesday, June 24.

The ladies of the Orland Home Bureau will meet at the home of Mrs. Helen Lembke in Orland township, Tuesday, July 1 at 2 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. James Greer, spent a few days motoring through Michigan last week, making stops at Holland, Paw-Paw and Sawyer.

Twenty-eight children and fifteen grown-ups enjoyed an outing at the Royal Neighbors Juvenile picnic on June 20. Each child received favors, prizes, ice cream and pop, furnished by Laurel Camp, R. N. A.

Word has been received that Bill Heiting has been awarded a prize for marksmanship at Camp Croft, S. C., and has been made a machine gunner first class.

Bill Doogan, who was inducted into military service last week, showed up in Orland over the week end resplendent in his new uniform. He says that all except six of the boys from the local contingent were sent to Texas. Don Jones and Jim Frundle of Orland were sent to Camp Grant at Rockford, Illinois and Bill was held over at Fort Sheridan from where he expects to be sent to California this week.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the annual July 4th picnic of St. Michael's church are expecting an overflow attendance. Postal cards announcing the event have been widely circulated and the famous chicken dinner which will be served by the ladies of the church from 12 to 3 is expected to prove an irresistible magnet.

Rev. Adolph Lach of the Christ Lutheran church is attending the convention of the General Synod of the Lutheran Church which is being held in Ft. Wayne, Indiana all this week.

Mrs. John Loebe has returned from a short visit in Vicksburg, Michigan where she attended the wedding of one of the school chums of her daughter Ruth.

The Gee family reunion which was originally planned for next Sunday, has been postponed and will be held sometime in the near future.

Mr. Wm. Anderson entertained his father and sister from Chicago last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tyler and son David returned Sunday from a week's trip in Minnesota and Grand Rapids, Mich.

Streamline the Harvest with the NEW 4-FOOT COMBINE

by INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER

HERE'S the sweetest little outfit that ever hummed through a harvest field—Harvester's brand-new 4-foot McCormick-Deering combine for power-drive operation behind a 1-plow tractor. The new No. 42 has everything its big brothers in the Harvester line have, plus new features for work on small farms. And here's the best part—you can get it at a price that's easy on your pocketbook!

One man can harvest and thresh in quick time with this fast-traveling combine. It steps along at the rate of 8 to 15 acres a day. It saves on equipment, twine, and threshing expense. It saves grain by doing the job in one operation—eliminating loss that comes with shocking, stacking, pitching, and hauling. It gets rid of extra help—saving food and work in the kitchen. See us about it now.

BAGGER EQUIPMENT, including wide, roomy platform with seat, and 2-way bagging spout, available if you prefer to handle your crops in bags.

LOUIS JOLIET GARAGE

LOCATED ON SCOTT ST., WITH ENTRANCE NEXT TO THE POST OFFICE, JOLIET IS CONVENIENT TO HOTELS, THEATERS, STORES AND RESTAURANTS AND OFFICES. AN EXCELLENT DAY AND NIGHT STORAGE SERVICE. ALSO FEATURE GENERAL MOTOR REPAIR WORK, CAR WASHING AND GREASING, GASOLINE AND OIL.

This Garage offers safe auto storage day or night and if you are shopping or spending the night in Joliet it will pay you to leave your car here as then you can rest assured that it will be free from being molested in any way or from the danger of having fenders scratched by careless parkers in the streets.

They feature a washing and polishing service which is in continuous motion and will be able to place your car on the racks so there will be no time lost and when you call, it will be washed and polished, also lubricated if you so desire it.

Their greasing service is excellent and if you happen to be going to town or shop or take care of business matters, you can get your car completely lubricated while you are attending to your affairs, thus "killing two birds with one stone".

For the many reasons detailed above it affords us the greatest pleasure to recommend the Louis Joliet Garage and again assure our readers that when they leave their cars here for storage or any of other service, they will be given every nicety of attention.

"Roofs that stand the test of time"
Any business to be permanently successful must be founded on principles of honesty and fair dealing and full value for the price asked. From these there can be no deviation, regardless of economics or any other conditions.

Every successful business in the United States, the ones that have started from a small beginning and have endured year after year, are built on an ideal. That ideal has always included a self imposed obligation to keep faith with the public by maintaining quality and service the year around regardless of conditions.

For these reasons we recommend Chicago Heights Roofing Company and Mr. Nick April to all our readers

Specializing in Delicous Italian Spaghetti
YOUR FRIENDLY HOST MR. FRANK WELCOMES YOU.

Since the opening of Frank's Music Box the name has spread far and wide as a place of popular prices and where the local and traveling public can more than satisfy their demands in obtaining the best in service. They cater to special parties; truly a place for discriminating people to meet.

Frank's Music Box presents an appearance at all times that is different from the usual.

The lighting effects are colorful and charm the eye. This well known place appeals to all the senses and lulls one to forgetfulness of the hum drum of life.

It is indeed refreshing to go to such an up-to-date establishment. It is unsurpassed in good modern service. When Mr. Frank went into business it was with the idea that a fine, modern place would be appreciated by the public. That this motive idea was well founded is proven by the success of the Music Box.

Private parties and special groups will receive the cheerful welcome extended to all visitors. For the crowd's social "get-together" plan your next party at the Music Box.

We are pleased to compliment on the high character of Mr. Frank who is rendering a much needed and highly appreciated service to the public and to say the people always find there a refined and pleasant host.

INDIAN MOTORCYCLES* *SALES AND SERVICE, ALSO AGENTS
FOR THE FAMOUS LASALLE BICYCLES* *BEST IN THE COUNTRY
REPAIR ALL MAKES OF BICYCLES

There is no firm more in accord with the advancing and ever changing times than this modern establishment which has come to be recognized as the motorcycle headquarters of this section of the state.

With the changing times motorcycling is gaining in popularity every day, and this firm has secured a complete line of Indian Motorcycles, the highest grade motorcycles manufactured. These are standard products and afford the public the very cheapest kind of travel and in addition they are used for sport and take the people to the great out of doors.

Motorcycle riding is the most economical transportation there is today and requires but small upkeep. Then the sport of riding a motorcycle is far greater than any other form of getting about and Peter and George,

The Monty Bros., realized this when they started the motorcycle business.

They are sold for cash or on an easy payment plan and this enables anyone to secure a motorcycle. No matter how much money you have in hand, drop in and see them, and you will ride away.

They are authorities on motorcycle construction, employing men in the service department who understand all features of the machine. No matter what problem you have in the line of service if you will ride around and consult them you will find that they will solve it for you.

In this Review we are glad to compliment Monty Bros., upon the past success and the future business which is assured by the development of a line of goods which promises to come into universal use.

CORN BELT HATCHERIES

82 DEPOT COURT Chicago Heights, Ill. Phone 1295
M. W. RING, Manager

All those interested in fine poultry, especially in highly bred stock should see the beautiful flocks of baby chicks, the mere sight of which will be worth your time.

The proprietor of the Corn Belt Hatcheries, is a person of long experience in the upbuilding of the leading strains in poultry.

He has an invaluable knowledge which is always at the patron's disposal. As a result of keen and scientific study, he today produces strong, healthy chicks, perfect in type and breeding markings, each one a model that would meet the requirements of the most exacting judge.

If you desire to change your blood line or are a beginner in poultry, their chicks are especially recommended. Each chick from here possess a wealth of heritage. Remember there is no finer stock available at any price.

Many farmers in Illinois can readily tell you that it is an ideal place to purchase baby chicks and they will be the best.

You may rest assured that you will do better in poultry when you start right by having good lines of chickens and these chicks will fulfill every expectation.

In this Review of 1941 we heartily recommend this popular hatchery to our readers and advise you to visit this place at your earliest convenience.

Henry O. Zeller Wholesale Meat Co., with a large capacity for the handling of the trade, has rendered their service most metropolitan and under experienced and competent management, they have become the prominent firm furnishing for many of the leading and most popular meat markets their high grade line of meats.

No review of the business, agricultural and industrial interests of this section of the state would be complete without prominent mention of this well known firm, who aids in no little measure the progress and prosperity of this section and it is undoubtedly one of the progressive and popular establishments in this section, and daily ships many consignments of meats all over this community.

Adequate meat service is unquestionably an essential feature today of every modern American community. Therefore, in detailing the prospects for a greater community, it is with a feeling of satisfaction that we direct your special attention to this whole sale meat dealer.

There is probably no other community this size in the country that is better equipped in this respect for this well known and popular concern has every modern convenience for correct meat distribution.

Very satisfactory service has been rendered to their patrons over the community and every patron of the concern is also a loyal supporter and a consistent booster for it.

A special feature with this establishment is the furnishing of information and in this department you will find courtesy and accommodation always in evidence. You are urged to call at any time, and the latest and most authoritative information is at your service concerning the market on meats.

We wish to compliment Henry O. Zeller upon the satisfactory service rendered in furnishing wholesome meats and refer his true blue efforts to our readers.

Complete Refrigeration Service

It is a real pleasure for us to be able to advise our readers of the fine services of this Appliance Sales and Service organization in Chicago Heights. The proprietors wish through this article to extend an invitation to all residents of South Cook Co., Will and Kankakee Counties to come into their place at any time and view the 1941 models on display there. This store stands for quality which is best evidenced by their preference for the General Electric line of household appliances. If you prefer, you may telephone at any time to this concern and a capable representative will gladly call at your home and explain the many refinements of G. E. equipment.

With the advance in electric wiring for farm communities in recent years, through funds made available by the Federal Housing Administration, naturally more and more people are in the market for electric household appliances. Before making a final selection for your family, don't fail to learn all about General Electric, whether it be a refrigerator, stove, washer, ironer, vacuum cleaner, iron or any item needed in the home.

Business firms of our smaller towns especially those which offer every known modern service, should be patronized. When you trade at the Chicago Heights Radio Hospital your dollar stays in the community. And when you are sure that General Electric is the equipment for your home, you are affording your family the last word in convenience, quality and an assurance of long life and good service. For you to call at the showrooms of the Chicago Heights Radio Hospital does not mean that you are obligated to make a purchase. It is Mr. Foster's and Mr. Dangoia's desire to meet more county people personally and have the opportunity of explaining just what advantages G. E. can mean in your home. Remember the location in Chicago Heights, 177 East 14th St.

Convenient credit terms can be arranged to suit your convenience and your budget.

Offering the Most Dignified Funeral Directing Service — Courteous, Experienced Attendants Will Take Charge and Attend to All Details—Also Offer Prompt Ambulance Service Night and Day—Serving the Community in a Most Courteous Manner.

It is eminently fitting in this Review that we devote much space to a well merited tribute to the efficient work that has won for this well known professional firm a prominent place among the most modern funeral directors in this section. There is no vocation requiring for its successful prosecution a greater natural aptitude than that of the modern funeral director, and this particularly applies to these well known representatives of this valued profession. Through untiring efforts and commendable methods they have progressed from a modest beginning until today they possess a clientele that extends over many miles of territory. Their service is kindly and sympathetic and no matter where you live it is available to you at all times. In your hour of sorrow just call on them and they will relieve you of all the troublesome details and the service will be one of dignity.

They have provided one of the most modernly equipped funeral homes which is complete in every detail. In this home they are prepared to conduct full services, the equipment being most modern and complete in every respect.

They have complete equipment for all funerals including some of the most distinctive funeral cars built. All other equipment is of the very best and they are in a position to furnish everything needed, thus relieving the clients of many little details.

They also have a modern invalid car and offer an excellent ambulance service that is at the call of the public day or night. This service is very convenient in taking sick or injured people to the hospital or removing convalescents from hospitals or sanitariums to their home. It is in the hands of careful and able attendants.

In making this 1941 Review we are pleased to compliment The Gerardi Funeral and Ambulance Service upon their successful career in the professional circles of this part of the state and to refer their services to all of our readers.

Insulating is very essential, economical; it saves on fuel and doctor bills, when done by such experts as are employed by the Midwest Roofing Co. of Chicago Heights. Their slogan is "Results, not Excuses."

Free of charge they will make a careful inspection of your roof, report loose flashings, separated laps, accidental breaks, weakened spots where water has always stood, and give you an estimate on needed repairs if you wish it. If your roof needs no repairs nor protection, you are under no obligation to them and you have the satisfaction of knowing there will be no roof trouble for some time.

Many farmers today have suffered the loss of their barns and homes which could have been saved through a firesafe roof. Their excellent roofing can be laid over the old shingles which will keep your house or barn warm in winter and cool in summer. In this way the added beauty serves many purposes and at a very low cost. Once the new roof is on your roofing troubles are all over.

We are pleased in this 1941 special edition to refer all our readers to them and to compliment the Midwest Roofing Co.

This taxi service has attained a wide popularity because of the prompt painstaking and economical service that is rendered. It is needless for us to remark that this service has been reliable and courteous.

They have set so high a standard of service that in all of this section there is no taxi service that can compare with it.

They offer a complete taxi service to residents of this section and have both day and night service. They offer special rates to sight-seeing parties and will give rates on request. Touring cars are also available.

"Careful, Courteous Drivers" is the slogan of the Yellow Cab Co. Every driver is an "Escort" absolutely trustworthy and has been selected by the Yellow Cab Co. for their organization after careful investigation into his character. In the large metropolitan cities like Chicago and New York the Cabman will take you to your door—and the same service is available here. There is no need to be afraid regardless of the hour if you are riding in a Yellow Cab.

The management is in the hands of progressive and public spirited people. They have always been boosters for all propositions which promise public improvement.

The Yellow Cab Company is under the direction of responsible business people and well known in transportation circles throughout the state.

Any business to be permanently successful must be founded on principles of honesty and fair dealing and full value for the price asked. From these there can be no deviation regardless of economics or any other conditions.

In 1809, ice cream was first introduced to Washington Society as an exclusive luxury. Its sponsor was Mrs. Alexander Hamilton (not Dolly Madison, as most people believe.)

Today, rich, nutritious ice cream is far superior to the product of Colonial days. It is neither exclusive nor a "luxury". Seven out of ten restaurant patrons eat ice cream daily. Our soldiers and sailors at sea enjoy ice cream regularly. Youngsters of seven and oldsters of seventy rub elbows at soda fountains everywhere. To millions of people, family dinners are incomplete without an ice cream dessert.

Ice cream is a genuine food. It yields fuel for body heat and muscular energy. As a concentrate of milk and cream, it also provides many nutrients essential to life. It contains carbohydrates, proteins and butter fats and is a source of Vitamins A, B1 and G.

Here the public has at its disposal the services of men who possess the knowledge and who obtained their confection education in the school of experience. From the inception of the business, quality has been maintained from the beginning.

Household News

by Lynn Chambers

... AND SO THEY ARE MARRIED
(See Recipes Below.)

AFTER THE 'I DO'S'

Intermittent glances at the third finger of your left hand, as you leave the church and hurry homeward to greet guests, remind you that you're a "Mrs." now ... and you've never been so happy!

You're too thrilled and excited to even think about food, but friends and relatives and your new husband, especially, are more than likely eager to partake of the very distinctive refreshments that "Mom" has spent weeks planning.

And later when you recall the wedding reception, if details have been worked out sanely and carefully beforehand, you'll know that yours was an extra special after-wedding party.

Dainty rolled asparagus sandwiches and a luscious peach shortcake, with an iced or hot beverage, are sure to satisfy gay young appetites, as well as appeal to the elders' taste for "something different."

Deck the table with fresh flowers. A fitting centerpiece is a replica of the bride's bouquet ... one exactly like that which she carried to the altar. A sophisticated crepe paper bridal couple will complete the table decorations.

Asparagus Rolled Sandwiches.

Remove crusts from a loaf of sandwich bread and cut in one-fourth inch lengthwise slices. Butter slices and cut in half. In each piece, place a stalk of asparagus. Roll bread carefully, pressing well along buttered edge to hold it securely. Sprinkle asparagus with a little salt and paprika before rolling bread, if desired.

The number of sandwich loaves and the amount of asparagus tips you will need will, of course, depend upon the length of your guest list.

Peach Shortcake.

3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ cup butter or other shortening
¾ cup milk
1½ quarts sliced peaches, sweetened

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening; add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out immediately on slightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll one-fourth inch thick. Place half in ungreased round cake pan; brush with melted butter. Place remaining half on top and butter top well. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Separate, spread bottom half with soft butter and some of peaches. Place other half on top. Spread with butter and remaining peaches; garnish with whipped cream. Cut into individual servings. Serves 8. Other fresh fruits may be substituted for peaches.

There is an old tradition that the luckiest sort of bride's cake is one baked in a ring—symbolic, like the gold band that is slipped on her

LYNN SAYS:

In regard to after-wedding parties, plan a menu that's simple and easy to serve, yet appetizing and delicious to eat.

Since the proverbial color scheme for the bride's table is green and white, plan to use white flowers for the centerpiece; if candles are used, they may be white or green.

It is customary for the bride to throw her bouquet to her attendants prior to her departure on the wedding trip.

Since the excitement and emotional strain will undoubtedly upset the bride, she'll not be able to thoroughly enjoy her own reception. For that reason, a piece of the cake should be cut and wrapped for the couple to take with them on their honeymoon. The table decorations should be saved for her to have on her return.

NOW YOU'RE A WIFE

... And the business of cooking for two begins! Feeding your husband will be an important part of your new life—really essential to the smooth sailing of the ship of matrimony. So next week Lynn will devote her entire column to recipes that will help you "hold your man." They'll be simple enough for the beginner, too.

finger for the first time at her wedding, of the endless quality of true love. This cake is cut by the bride and served to the guests as part of the wedding feast, and is quite different from the rich fruit cake that is given to the guests to carry away. It is a light cake, like a white cake or sponge cake, and is frosted with all the curlicues and rosettes that the home cook can manage.

This cake brings luck to the guests, for it contains a ring, a coin and a key—signifying marriage, wealth and happiness to those who find them. If you haven't a ring-shaped pan, you can bake the cake in an angel-food cake pan or in an ordinary cake pan, with the ring outlined in contrasting frosting. The bride's and bridegroom's initials in contrasting frosting may be used for further decoration.

Bride's Cake.

1 cup sifted cake flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup (8 to 10) egg whites
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1½ cups sifted granulated sugar
¾ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond extract

Sift flour once, measure and sift four more times. Beat egg whites and salt with flat wire whisk. When foamy add cream of tartar and continue beating until eggs are stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Fold in sugar carefully, 2 tablespoons at a time, until all is used. Fold in flavoring. Then sift small amount of flour over mixture and fold in carefully; continue until all is used. Pour batter into ungreased angel-food cake pan or ring-shaped pan and bake in a slow oven. Begin at 275 degrees F. After 30 minutes increase heat slightly (325 degrees); bake 30 minutes more. Remove from oven; invert pan 1 hour.

Marshmallow Frosting.

½ cup sweetened condensed milk
4 marshmallows
1½ cups sifted confectioners' (4X) sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cook sweetened condensed milk and quartered marshmallows in top of double boiler until marshmallows are melted. Remove from fire, add confectioners' sugar gradually, beating until smooth and creamy. Add vanilla. May be spread on cake while warm. This frosting covers tops of two 9-inch layers or top and sides of ring-shaped cake or about 18 cup cakes.

Butter Frosting.

¾ cup sweetened condensed milk
4 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cups sifted confectioners' (4X) sugar (about)

Cream sweetened condensed milk and butter together. Add vanilla, blending well. Add sifted confectioners' sugar gradually, beating until smooth and light in color. This frosting may be tinted any color by addition of a speck of food coloring. Pale tints are most attractive. Spread on cold cake. Makes enough frosting to cover tops of two 9-inch layers or top and sides of ring-shaped cake, or about 24 cup cakes. Make the letters of corresponding or contrasting frosting by means of a pastry tube.

If you plan a wedding breakfast, instead of an afternoon or evening reception, include something hot and something cold for the main course, a beverage, ice and wedding cake, of course. Here's my menu suggestion:

Home Remedies Often Prevent Finding Cause

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN you have a headache you may take aspirin, phenacetin, caffeine or other pain-relieving drug. In a short time the pain has "disappeared" or is so "dulled" that you are not in any distress.

Similarly you may get a pain in the stomach which you think is due to gas and a half teaspoon of baking soda may give relief.

Perhaps you have attacks of dizziness with nausea and vomiting. Thinking this is due to sluggish liver and gall bladder, you take one or two teaspoons of Epsom salts.

Dr. Barton

Any itching anywhere in the body is treated with a solution of baking soda or the application of some ointment.

Any ache or pain in joints or muscles is treated by heat, together with some pain relieving drug.

Your physician is not likely to criticize any of the above methods of treatment except taking Epsom salts or other purgative for the pain in the abdomen. The abdominal pain might be appendicitis, and taking a purge is the cause of most deaths from this ailment.

In other words, the taking of a "home" remedy occasionally is not likely to do much harm or hide any underlying ailment. Where the harm does occur, however, is the taking of a drug regularly or often for some ailment because the drug relieves the symptoms for the time being.

Drug Obscures the Reason.

Why is the taking of a drug regularly likely to do harm? There must be some reason for the headache, the pain in abdomen, the nausea and vomiting, the intense itching. If a drug is taken regularly and relief obtained the cause of the ailment is not sought, and the condition may become progressively worse, even dangerous. Thus the headache may be due to anemia or high blood pressure, pain in stomach to ulcer, pain in abdomen to gall bladder disease, or constipation.

The point, then, is that while the use of home remedies "occasionally" should cause little or no harm symptoms which occur regularly or even irregularly but often should not be treated with pain-killing drugs. A visit to your physician and dentist to find the cause of the symptoms is the sensible thing to do.

Drug Addicts Not Physical Weaklings

ONE of the impressions of drug addicts many of us have, is that they are thin, undersized, pale individuals. And we are apparently justified in this belief because of the pale appearance and "hollow eyes" present in so many of them. It is only natural, therefore, that we think of them as becoming addicted to drugs because they are weak physically, even if not weak mentally.

It may come as a surprise, therefore, to learn that a study of the body build of drug addicts shows that they are not weak, delicate individuals but are of normal build.

Dr. R. R. Brown, in Public Health Reports, Washington, D. C., reports the results of his studies of 400 native white addicts following their admission to the United States penitentiary annex, Fort Leavenworth, Kan. Every case was definitely proved to be a drug addict, not just an "occasional" user of the drug. Measurements were taken of the unclothed patients and a record made of appearances.

It was found that these drug addicts were not of the weak, thin, undersized type, but were slightly above the average in both height and weight.

Under treatment at the institution, there was an average gain in weight of about 6½ pounds, after 5½ months.

What does the above teach us? The lesson for all of us is that the temptation to use drugs is not due to "gross constitutional weakness" of the body. It is something wrong in our character or makeup that makes us want to use a drug to put us in a dream state so that we do not have to face difficulties and trials.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What causes mouth ulcers?

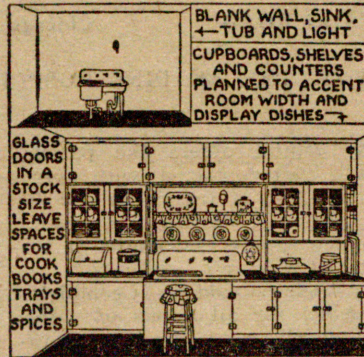

A.—If no infection of mouth, teeth, gums, etc., the ulcers may be due to some disturbance of stomach or intestine.

Q.—What is leukoderma? What is leukemia?

A.—Leukoderma is simply white spots on skin due to loss of pigment (coloring matter). It is not serious. Leukemia—a form of anemia—is increase in white corpuscles in blood, a serious condition.

NEW IDEAS for Home-makers

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

boards are 1 by 12-inch boards. These rest on the lower cupboards and are placed far enough apart to accommodate the glass doors. The 1 by 12-inch board across the room makes the top of the glass cupboards and the bottom of the upper cupboards. The ruffle trimmed shelf between the glass cupboards is 6 inches wide and the plate rail below it is made of two moulding strips.

NOTE: If you are fixing up your kitchen you will find complete directions for fascinating new curtains on page 16 of your copy of Book 3, containing reprints of this series by Mrs. Spears. It also contains directions for a space-saving pantry door pocket. In Book 4 there is a cook book shelf to be made for a kitchen table; also a twine bag that you will find useful. These booklets may be secured by writing direct to:

Uncle Phil Says:

With Doers in Minority
The world is divided into people who do things, and people who take the credit.

So far, no navigator has made a reliable chart of the Sea of Matrimony.

A little pull will get you most places—but not through a door marked "push."

Monkeys Look On Seriously
Men laugh at the behavior of monkeys, but the monkeys are more polite.

When a man pays his taxes his patriotism is at its lowest ebb.

A chairman spends 20 minutes introducing the man "who needs no introduction."

Many a man is put in the shade because he stands in his own light.

A Blessing Possible

Peace can be made perpetual if nations will agree not to make new wars until they have paid for the old ones.

Of the two, I'd rather listen to the boaster than the alibi.

There are three kinds of men who do not understand women: young men, old men, and middle-aged men.

COME in today! Equip your car with the famous Safti-Sured Firestone DeLuxe Champion Tires. It may be your last chance to get them at these low prices and with such exceptional trade-in allowances. This remarkable new tire is Safti-Sured against blowouts by a patented Safety-Lock Gum-Dipped cord body — Safti-Sured against skidding by the amazing Gear-Grip tread—and Safti-Sured for longer mileage by the exclusive new wear-resisting Vitamic rubber compound. They are the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

THE popular shirtwaist style in a tried and true pattern, designed especially for the larger figure. The eight-piece skirt contributes a slimming, graceful line. The shirtwaist top has ample fullness, let in with darts at the shoulder yoke and waistline. The notched collar, cuffed sleeves and double pockets are the tailored details which give Pattern No. 1381-B the smartness typical of the favorite shirtwaist styling. Every proportion is carefully planned, every feature is in keeping, and the design reaches a high standard of pattern smartness!

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1381-B is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards 35-inch material. A detailed sew chart gives full directions for cutting and making. Send your order to:

Saving Habit

The habit of saving is itself an education; it fosters every virtue, teaches self-denial, cultivates the sense of order, trains to forethought, and so broadens the mind.—T. T. Munger.

INDIGESTION

may affect the Heart
Gas trapped in the stomach or gullet may act like a hair-trigger on the heart. At the first sign of distress smart men and women depend on Bell's Gas Tablets to get gas free. No laxative but made of the fastest-acting medicines known for acid indigestion. If the FIRST DOSE doesn't prove Bell's Gas better, return bottle to us and receive DOUBLE Money Back, 25c.

Fainfully Good

Some people are so painfully good that they would rather be right than be pleasant.—L. C. Ball.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!
